

TBS DISCOUNT FUEL CARDS

What is a discount fuel card?

TBS discount fuel cards are payment cards most commonly used for diesel and other services at truck stops. In addition, a TBS discount fuel card account gives you instant access to an electronic fund source via Comcheck with Comdata or TransCheck with EFS. You can set up multiple accounts/cards to eliminate the need for carrying cash, thus increasing the level of security for you and your drivers. The elimination of cash also makes it easier to prevent fraudulent transactions from occurring at the owner's expense.

What are the benefits?

TBS fuel cards are universally accepted at thousands of truck stops nationwide for fuel and repairs. You'll get web tools you can use to better manage your fleet's fuel expenditures, specify authorized products and set limits for certain purchases. Use the customizable report functions to capture state by state fuel purchases for IFTA and more. You can administer your Comdata account on the web at iconnectdata.com or your EFS fuel card at fleet-tech.com.

Is a TBS fuel card required to factor?

No, but we urge you to get one. The advantage is that TBS can always fund your TBS fuel card account. If your bank is closed for a Federal holiday or you've missed our wire transfer cut-off time, TBS can send your factor payment to your TBS fuel card account. A fuel card account is a great way to ensure you always have the funds you need to run your business.

*TBS Advance Program members are required to have a TBS fuel card; however, you may also get your advance payment by ACH or bank wire.
